METHODOLOGY:

This bill prohibits state, county and municipal agencies from requiring an individual to disclose the individual's race or religion on any agency form, application or other document. Such disclosure shall be strictly voluntary. The bill also modifies references to race in birth, marriage and death records.

The proposed legislation would impact the Department of Health and Human Services' ability to remain compliant with federal reporting which would jeopardize current and future funding opportunities. Impacts are anticipated to include costs for design, development and implementation (DDI) of changes to systems within Behavioral Health, Long Term Support Services, and the Medicaid Management Information System as well as impact the Department's compliance with Federal funding partners for Behavioral Health and Long Term Support Services. The DDI costs are estimated to be $200,000 with a timeline to implement the changes of six months. The impact to federal funding associated with compliance to reporting requirements would likely result in a decrease exceeding $7,000,000.

The Behavioral Health Web Information Technology System is currently configured to require the "race" field in compliance with the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Block Grants reporting requirements associated with the last award to the Department for $7,000,000. Department reports this information to Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration (SAMHSA) a branch of the US Department of Health and Human Services (USDHHS) in compliance with the reporting requirements for the block grant. This system is designed with the functionality to modify this requirement as needed and thus will not require additional funds to make the change. However, if the State fails to remain compliant with the required reporting to our federal partners, the Department could lose the federal grant funds for $7,000,000.

The Department's Division of Long Term Support Services (Division) employs two IT systems – Special Medicaid Services (SMS) and Partners in Health that collect race data as a mandatory field in conjunction with the federal funding and reporting guidelines. These two systems would need to be modified based on this proposed legislation. The DDI costs associated with this change to these two systems is estimated at $20,000 and requiring two months to complete. Based on the effective date of the proposed legislation, the timeline to be compliant may not be met. The Division also depends on Federal funding from Administration for Community Living (ACL) a branch of the USDHHS. ACL in association with grant funds requires the Department to file reports including collection of data to include race to be compliant with the grant awards. Non-compliance with these reporting requirements could jeopardize current and future funding for these programs and services.

The Medicaid Management Information System would require extensive changes to make this change based on its integrations and interfaces with other systems. The estimated costs to complete the DDI are approximately $180,000 and the timeline to implement the necessary changes would exceed two months based on planning, procurement, and testing requirements.

The Affordable Care Act Section 4302 (ACA) mandates identifying, collecting and evaluating health disparities data under Medicaid and Children's Health Insurance Program (CHIP) on the basis of race, ethnicity, sex, primary language and disability status. The Department was required to change the race and ethnicity categories for its systems to comply with the ACA.

The University System of New Hampshire indicates it is not an agency of the state, so it is not subject to the bill's provisions. However, the University System, Community College System, Department of Safety, New Hampshire Municipal Association and New Hampshire Association of Counties all replied that they do not require such information now, so there is no fiscal impact.

The Department of State indicates any expenditures related to changing forms would be absorbed within its existing budget.

The Department of Administrative Services states there may be a cost to regenerate forms utilizing such information.

The Department of Education states that the Bureau of Educator Credentialing currently requests that an individual disclose his or her race but such disclosure is not required. There are no questions on any forms relating to an individual's religion. The Department does not anticipate any fiscal impact as a result of this bill, however the Department is required to collect and report race as a subgroup for various federal education programs and is unsure of any ramifications of failing to report this information.
